Untouched.

A single-abstention tracker.

Days since, whatever it is. Earn a coin at each milestone.

"We won't check. You will. The count is just for you."

Onboarding & naming

The manifesto sets the contract: name one thing, step away from it, start again if you slip. Naming is private and stays on the device. Milestones are fixed to the recovery-coin tradition.

Coins & resets

The coin earned is a quiet full-screen moment at each milestone, engravable with a private note. The shelf is the only history surface. Resets require typing; coins earned stay earned.

True OLED black (#000) — saves battery, lets the single amber coin glow. Dark mode is the primary theme; light is a concession to daytime use.

Dark mode is where Untouched breathes — the shelf becomes a field of black with coins of amber light. The reset screen is the only place the app asks you to write, and it only asks once.
